ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A digital camera takes photographs of printed material upon recognition of a specified text pattern. In one exemplary embodiment of the present invention, the process of photographing printed material based on text pattern recognition is 5 partially manual. In a second embodiment of the present invention, the process is highly automated.